

BHUPESH GUPTA (1914 – 1981) graduated from the College and then earned his law degrees from the University College London. In his early days he joined the revolutionary group Anusilan Samity in their fight against the colonial government. Later, he joined the Communist Party and was elected as a Member of the Rajya Sabha in 1952. He remained in the post till his death in 1981. He was the longest-serving member of the Rajya Sabha at the time of his death. Gupta championed women's rights, national integration and the principles of secularism.
